Aid From Switzerland. With so many and convincing evidences of injurious compounds in the so-called popular remedies, put up in seductive syrups or confections to hide the vicious, habit forming crugs, the American public will welcome the introduction of a safe and sane Swiss prescription—Sirolin—widely endorsed and used in Europe both as a prompt and effective relief for coughs, colds, is grippe, bronchitis and other disconfers of the throat and lungs, and also as a preventive and safeguard against the more serious consequences leading to pneumonia and consumption. seductive syrups or confections to hide

That Sirolin is a scientific formula, having for its healing and antiseptic basis the active principle derived from the well known virtues of Guiacol and Crossots, is no secret, but a well-established fact, which has the en-dorsement of both European and Amerilcan authorities.

Dodging Legislation.

Speaker Reed 20 years ago established the prestice of counting a quorum where none was indicated by the vote, against the protests of all the democrats and against the objections of a considerable number of republi-cane, led by Mr. Cannon, until the position taken by the speaker composition taken by the speaker com-pelled his party to support him or re-pudiate him, and it supported him. The question raised by his action in-voived the right of a minority to in-sist that the majority party, or the majority supporting a measure, shall furnish its own quorum, and this is a sound principle, although the house has abandoned it.

has abandoned it.

As to the status of paired members. it may be true that absenteelsm is an evil, and that all the members should be present all the time. However, it is a long-established usage in both houses that members may temporarily ab-sent themselves, without weakening their side of the body or their side of their side of the body or their side of the pending question, by pairing with members opposed to them. But if the present members of pairs may be counted to make a quorum on the passage of a bill, the balance between the two sides of the body does not remain undisturbed by the pairing of opposing members. Possibly both houses should restrict the privilege of pairing, but so long as the practice of pairing, but so long as the practice of pairing is left unrestricted, such a decision as that of the vice president was wrong and the senate was right in rejecting it.—Philadelphia Resert.

THE AGE OF A HORSE,

"Tom Long" the Authority. In the police court a charge of cru-elty to animals had been brought against a resident of Rock Hill, says a Harfford exchange. The particulars fory now, only as an incident of it ocky Hill woman was asked about the age of the horse in the case. The oply was a denial of knowledge, addthat "Tim Long" would have to be sulted, "as the horse was bought of a." The inquiry was, as a matter of fact, immaterial, but in the end it de-veloped the story which follows: It was on a summer morning, back

It was on a summer morning, back some time ago, when a prosperous looking man was introduced to Mr. Long as a party desiring to acquire a cheep horse. The hotel man had one that he thought would fill the bill, but to make assurance doubly sure he arranged with the prospective buyer to go down to the Newington farm next morning with the milk team and look over the "prospect" and see him later that day, Mr. Long gave no further thought to the matter for some three days, when he noticed that the talked-Middletown.—Beginning Jan. 1, 1911, the Meriden-Middletown cars will run express between the Meriden rairoad station and Miller Bros. Bridgeport.—The water has been shut off at all of the watering tanks in the city to prevent the spread of standers. This action was taken by the street department upon the request of the board of health.

I that day. Mr. Long gave no further thought to the mutter for some three days, when he noticed that the talked-of borse was not in its place in the double team. To his surprise the attendant—the same who took the intending buyer to the farm—told him the man had led the horse away—asserting he had bought it. No one knew the man personally, the man who had introduced him to Mr. Long not being within reach. Thereupon the horse owner set about looking up his property. It took over three weeks to locate the horse. Then he wrote to the woman who assumed to own Norwalk.—There will be a district group meeting of the Epworth league at the South Norwalk Methodist church this (Friday) evening. It Makes Wrinkles Worry over ill-health does your health no good, and merely causes winkles, that make you look older than you are.

ed. There are many creditable exhibits of Chilian products, as well as some imported wares. It is to be kept than you are.

If you are sick, don't worry, but go about it to make yourself well. To do this we repeat the words of thousands of other former sufferers from womanly ills, similar to yours, when we say

POETRY.

THE CLOSING YEAR. Tis midnight's hely hour and silence

Is broading like a gentle spirit o'er
The still and pulseless world. Hark!
On the winds
The bells' deep tones are swelling; 'tie
the knell
Of the departing year. No funeral Is sweeping past: Yet on the stream and wood with melancholy light the moonbeams Like a pale, spotless shroud; the air is stirred
As by a mourner's sigh; and on you That floats so still and placidly through That floats so still and placidly through heaven.
The spirits of the seasons seem to stand—
Young spring, bright summer, autumn's solemn form
And winter with his aged locks—and breathe
In mournful cadences that come abroad Like the far windharp's wild and touching wall.
A melancholy dirge o'er the dead year, Gone from the earth forever. The a time
For memory and for tears. With the deep,
Still chambers of the heart a specter dim,
Whose tunes are like the wizard voice dim.
Whose tunes are like the wizard voice of time
Heard from the tomb of ages, points its cold
And solemn finger to the beautiful
And holy visions that have pass'd away,
And left no shadow of their leveliness
On the dead waste of life. The year
Has gone, and with it many a glorious throng throng Of happy dreams, Its mark is on each brow. Its shadow in each heart. In its con-It shadow in each heart. In its course
It waved its scepter o'er the beautiful;
And they are not. It laid its palled thand
Upon the strong man, and the haughty
Is fallen, and the flashing eye is dim.
Fierce spirit of the glass and scythe—
what power
Can stay him in his silent course, or most
